merit selection

capability-based assessment

- is the process that assesses a person's capabilities against those required for a role
- assessments used should measure all 16 core capabilities (and 4 people management capabilities, if applicable to role)
- may include interview, role play, work sample test, psychometric testing, reference check or group exercise

suitability assessment

- this is the minimum assessment required
- assessment of an applicant against the requirements of the role not against other applicants
- at least 2 assessments, one of which is an interview comparative assessment

- assessment of an applicant's claim against (a) the pre-established standards for the role; and (b) other person's claims
- at least 3 assessments, one of which is an interview
- it is the basis for ongoing employment and for temporary employment for longer than 6 months temporary employment

max period of employment

- previously 3 years
- now 4 years with an option to extend up to 6 months

- must be from talent pool or another list
- based on suitability assessment more than 6 months

- must be based on comparative assessment and an external advertisement promotion decisions

what is a review?

- internal review of a selection process
- limited to looking at whether the process was irregular or improper
- not a review of the merit of recommended employee for the role who conducts the review?

- reviewer is a senior executive not involved in the selection process for the role
- must conduct review within 10 days what findings can be made?

- may confirm the decision: or
- may make a recommendation to revoke the decision and carry out another process
- reviewer's decision is final transfers & secondments transfers between government sector

- by agreement between agencies, can be requested by employee
- at same or equivalent grade or level
- employer must provide reasonable notice of transfer, employee can request a review of transfer temporary secondments between government sector

- by agreement between agencies
- not to exceed 2 years

consultation and review

- employee consultation required: s64(2) GSEA
- review is conducted by SES not involved in decision, within 10 days, employee may make submissions on reasons why transfer would cause undue hardship
- reviewer to determine if review was appropriate having read to all relevant circumstances, their decision is final

ses

transition from SO to SES
