

Celebrate the work you do with the PSA for Child Protection Week

The PSA and your federal union, the CPSU SPSF, are promoting and acknowledging the contribution of NSW public sector child protection workers during Child Protection Week.

Three ways the PSA is promoting you!

We ran the National Child Protection Delegate Awards. We want to thank your delegates who work so hard campaigning for well-resourced child protection services, and a safe and fair workplace where workers are supported and respected. We'll be posting the state and national winners on Facebook throughout the week.

PSA organisers will be visiting CSCs and workplaces to promote public child protection workers and celebrating the contribution you make to children and families in NSW.

If you're holding a Child Protection Week event at your office, we'd love to promote it on social media. Send your photos to FACSOrganising@psa.asn.au.

We'll be posting selfies of members from across the state on social media to promote why you are proud to be a child protection worker. Download the selfie sign and get snapping!
