The April-June edition of Red Tape is ready to download

The latest issue of Red Tape is available to download now.

Our current issue looks at NSW universities as they emerge from the shock of COVID-19. We go on campus to find out how universities can deal with the drop in overseas student numbers that has slashed their revenue.

Red Tape also covers Post Traumatic Stress Disorder: the signs to look for and the strategies available to treat it.

We celebrate wins in the disability-support sector, NSW Police, Taronga Zoo and at a school on the Central Coast.

Thirty-four years after rescuing their colleagues in a hostage situation, 11 Prison Officers received vice-regal awards for bravery. Read their story, and those of the four winners of Prison Officer Vocational Branch special honours, in this issue.

This issue also names the winner of the PSA/CPSU NSW National Parks/State Forests photography competition.

You can download Red Tape at psa.asn.au and cpsunsw.org.au.

For members who are blind or have low levels of vision, a wide range of adaptive technologies and tools are available to assist. Applications such as Jaws Screen Reader can help access our union information.
