

HELP IS AT HAND

Your union is here to support members experiencing domestic and family violence.

If you need support or help, PSA/CPSU NSW has provided a landing place for you to find services and answers. Our website outlines the programs in place for members and will continue to update. You can also log on and see if your employer provides domestic violence leave and what entitlements you have to take time off to deal with domestic and family violence.

There may be other union services available to you, so please discuss them with your delegate, Women's Councillor, organiser, or the Member Support Centre on 1300 772 679.

For a full list of our domestic violence services, go to www.psa.asn.au/domestic-violence or www.cpsunsw.org.au/domestic-violence

If you are concerned someone may be monitoring your internet use, our websites have information on browsing anonymously.
